

USING E-DATABASES

- We subscribe to a range of databases: some cover all subject areas (eg Web of Science), and some cover specific subject areas (eg MLA Bibliography for English Literature).
- Library homepage → Databases search
- Citation database & Full text database
  - Citation database :
    - Provide a descriptive record of an item, but the item itself is not provided in the database. Information about the item is provided, including such things as author, title, subject, publisher, etc. The information provided is called a citation.
  - Full-text database :
    - Provide not only citation but full-text as well.
    - Note: Most of articles in full text database provide full text, but depends on author's authorization.

RECOMMEND DATABASES

- General database
  - Web of Science (WOS) (Citation database)
    - Including Science Citation Index Expanded (SCIE) & Social Sciences Citation Index (SSCI).
    - Coverage over 50,000 scholarly books, 12,000 journals and 160,000 conference proceedings.
    - Not a full-text database, it is an index of peer-reviewed resources that links to other databases that provide full-text copies.
